

THREE LIVES ARE LOST

In Early Morning Hotel Fire at Nashua

Special to the Herald.
Nashua, N. H., Nov. 21.—An early morning fire in hotel Denton, occupied principally as a lodging house by railroad men and paper workers, caused three men to lose their lives this morning.
The fire was discovered shortly after 4 o'clock, and it burned off the lower portion of the stairs preventing the escape of Harry L. Corey, aged 31, a paper worker; Patrick O'Brien, aged 65, a paper worker, and James Maguire, aged 35, a railroad brakeman.
As soon as the firemen arrived the three men were rescued from the burning building and taken to the Nashua hospital. Corey died on the way, and O'Brien died shortly after reaching there. Maguire lived about an hour. The damage done by this fire is estimated at $4,000.
On the way to the fire the chemical engine skidded and struck a lamp post. The driver, Richard Halliday, was thrown from his seat and sustained a fractured ankle and badly strained shoulder.

GARRETT AND BADGER, RIVAL CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR ARMY TO CHECK REVOLT

FREEMAN R. GARRETT, Republican.

DANIEL W. BADGER, Democrat.

Choice of the Parties at Caucus---Both Tickets Selected for Municipal Election with but One Contest

The republican and democrats completed their tickets for the municipal election in December on Monday evening when both parties held their caucus. There was not the customary interest in either caucus although there was a much larger vote cast at the republican caucus. There was no contest in the democrat ticket and only one in the republican, Albert Hislop and William H. Loyell both being candidates for the unexpired term of Mr. Charles F. Stillaber on the board of public works.
THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.
The republican caucus was held from five until eight o'clock and Chairman Gupill of the city committee, president, and Frank Newick was secretary. The check list was used and the markers were, Dr. C. Johnston, S. W. Emory, Jr., Frank Hopworth, C. E. Andrews and Elmer Clark.
The tellers were William T. Entwistle and Howard O. Nelson.
At eight o'clock when the polls were closed the tellers after counting the ballots announced that there were 314 votes cast and all of the ticket with the exception of the candidates for board of public works had the full number. The vote for the board of public works was Albert Hislop, 239; William H. Loyell, 75.
Chairman Gupill then announced the ticket as selected as follows:
For Mayor.
Freeman R. Garrett.
For Councilmen at Large.
Robert M. Derrick.
James A. Rand.
Robert I. Sugden.
Ernest Holmes.
For Assessor of Taxes.
John G. Yarwood.
For Board of Instruction.
Annie H. Hewitt.

Joseph Foster.
Lucius H. Thayer.
Frank W. Knight.
For Board of Public Works.
(For Full Term.)
John Newick.
(For Vacancy.)
Albert Hislop.
The usual vote to allow the City Committee to fill what ever vacancies that may occur was passed and the following committee appointed by the chair to notify the successful candidate for mayor:
C. H. Colbath, H. B. Dow, John Hallam, S. T. Newton, Geo. Pollard.
They returned a few minutes after with Mr. Garrett, and he made a brief speech of acceptance.
He thanked the caucus for the honor of being elected and said that if elected he would do all in his power to give the city a clean and honest administration.
DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.
The democrats held their caucus at the Court house on State street, and Chairman John W. Emery presided, and William F. Conlon was the secretary.
There was very little interest and a small vote cast, and at eight o'clock there were not over forty present to hear the returns.
There was no contest and the following ticket was nominated:
For Mayor.
Daniel W. Badger.
For Councilmen at Large.
Seth M. Hanson.
John G. Parsons.
Richard A. Cooney.
William M. Gray.
For Members of Board of Public Works.
For 1 year term—James W. Barrett.
For 3 year term—Fred E. Hasty.
For Assessor of Taxes.
Frank M. Bennett.
For Members of Board of Instruction.
Lucius H. Thayer.
Mrs. Annie H. Hewitt.
Joseph Foster.
Frank W. Knight.
Chairman Emery appointed the following committee to notify Mayor Badger, the nominee: Messrs. John G. Parsons, William Cogan, Cornelius Dowd, Fred H. Webber and Jeremiah Coughig.
They returned soon after with the candidate and he said:
Mr. Chairman and Fellow Citizens: It is perhaps useless and needless for me to attempt to express my thanks and appreciation of the honor which you have again con-

Madero Orders 25,000 Men to Northern Boundary

American War Department Active to Enforce Neutrality Laws

Mexico City, Nov. 20.—Orders to mobilize 25,000 men in a zone paralleling the Northern boundary have been issued today by the War Department. The Government is yet skeptical concerning the inauguration of Royst revolution, but should it be begun President Madero and his Cabinet believe the army would be sufficient to check it.
All these troops will be under the order of Gen. Gerónimo Treviño with headquarters at Conterey. With the exception of the rurales, the regular forces are almost equally divided between infantry and cavalry. In addition 2400 volunteers of the State of Nuevo Leon have been detailed for service along the frontier.
Today, which was expected to mark the beginning of a new revolution, was celebrated as a holiday here and throughout the Republic. It was the anniversary of the commencement of the Madero revolt.
War Department Active
Washington, Nov. 20.—The War Department is moving with a degree of energy heretofore unknown in dealing with the incipient rebellion being fomented in Texas against President Madero's Government in Mexico.
Sen. Stinson is in a constant communication by telegraph with Gen. Dugan and has instructed the latter to cooperate closely with the agents of the Department of Justice, who are collecting evidence and making arrests of suspected revolutionists who have not sufficiently developed their plans to warrant the military in seizing them.
All this is being done, it is said because President Taft believes that the American people should give the Mexican a fair chance to test their new Government without interference.
In reporting to the State Department upon the seizure of arms and the arrest of the revolutionary officers at Laredo by Maj. Hagedorn, American Consul Garrett at Nuevo Laredo, the Mexican town opposite the place where the arrest was made, says that the lieutenant arrested said he had a commission from Gen. Reyes personally. This, if true will have an important bearing upon the trial of the latter before the United States Courts.
Gen. Reyes Arraigned
San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 20.—Blaming President Madero of Mexico for charges of violation of the neutrality law on which he was arrested Saturday, Gen. Bernardo Reyes was arraigned here this forenoon. Gen. Reyes declared the charges groundless.
He said he would remain in San Antonio until he had been vindicated.

ROBBERS ARE FOILED

Judge Filtz Finds Burglars in His Home on Two Nights

Wakefield, Nov. 20.—Two attempts were made to rob the residence of David Slade at Lakeside the first on Friday night and again last night. Judge Frank E. Filtz, son-in-law of Mr. Slade, occupies the same house. When he returned home at 10:30 Saturday night he heard some men moving about in the dining room. He found most of the silverware in the safe, valued at $1000 on the table. He believes the burglars heard him coming in by the side door. He found a window open through which they made their escape without being able to take their plunder with them. An investigation showed that the burglars had barricaded the stairway so as to prevent the members of the family who were sleeping on the second floor from getting downstairs when they awoke.

Last night, while Judge Filtz was on a drive with members of the fam- ily in his auto another visit was made to the house by the burglars. They attempted to blow open the safe and were at work on it when the Judge returned home. They left by a rear roof, which they forced with a jimmy. This time the burglars made no attempt to take the silverware.

Among those in the house Satur- day while the burglars were at work were Mrs. E. G. Long, a cousin of Mrs. Filtz, Miss Margaret G. Higgins a maid and Robert Filtz, aged 11. Miss Higgins was so badly frightened that she became hysterical and is under the care of a physician.

An attempt was also made to enter the house of Mrs. Helen O'Brien nearby, but the burglars were frightened away. Judge Filtz's wife is president of the National Society of the D. A. R. and is in Florida.

Children are great lovers of ginger- bread, and grown folks, too, if it is the rich, "melt-in-your-mouth" kind. Here is something the children can eat freely without fear of "tummy-ache":

Mix two cups flour, one-half level teaspoon salt, one level teaspoon soda, one level tablespoon ginger; stir in one cup molasses, two tablespoons softened butter and one-half cup boiling water. Bake in shallow pan. If for dessert, bake in layers. Fill with whipped cream, flavored with lemon.

HARROWING
EXPERIENCE
OF THE SEA

Westbrook, Conn., Nov. 20.—Out of the delirium in which they had been since their rescue from the rocks of Menunkesuck Point after the wreck of the schooner Henry H. Willis yesterday, Capt. Otto Pauer and his mate, Cornelius Harrington, emerged this forenoon and with clear minds told the story of the harrowing experiences in the schooner during Saturday night while the vessel drifted upon a rocky lee shore.

Capt. Pauer did not know of the loss of his wife, Harriet, and their child, both of whom had been washed to the deckhouse by the captain and mate that the terrific seas might not wash them overboard. In the bitter winds and tumultuous water both died from exposure.

Mate Harrington, who is 68 years old and has followed the sea all his life, says he never had a closer call from death. He said the schooner was trying to beat up the sound under the southwest blow, but was unable to do better than make the Connecticut shore and anchor under Duck Island Breakwater. At the time there were seven schooners and two tugs under the breakwater. The Willis had to shorten cable to let a three-master get by, and in doing so the strain proved too much for a smaller cable, and the vessel got out of hand and went on the rocks. Mate Harrington says that as soon as the vessel went adrift Capt. Pauer and himself began to burn torches as signals of distress. No help came, and Harrington says he believes the tugs could have given assistance if they had wanted to.

The rocks of the point were only a half mile distant, and very soon the vessel was pounding upon them. One mast went overboard and it was seen that the schooner would break up. Then Mrs. Pauer and the little girl were made fast to the cabin house in the hope that the whole would drift ashore. But it

ELIOT

Sunday, Mr. Joseph W. Davis attained to his 74th year. In anticipation of the Saturday evening event, his children and grandchildren residing in the town and Portsmouth gathered beneath the paternal roof to do honor to the occasion, and a very merry party was the result. Mr. Davis was made the recipient of many presents, but bestowed in some instances in a mysterious manner, to the amusement and amusement of some of the little grandchildren, who thought the program strongly resembled a Santa Claus visit. Refreshments were served the centre of attraction being a beautiful birthday cake, made by his daughter, Mrs. Albert Wetherbee of Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been blessed with a happy married life of nearly 50 years, and have reared a family of eight children, who never let an opportunity slip to show their appreciation of the parental care and love which has always been bestowed upon them. It was with the wish of many happy returns of the day, that the company dispersed at a late hour to their respective homes.

It was just an evil rumor that got started and you could no more stop it than you could halt a tornado. People were swept away by it and acted rashly. They are now in a penitent mood."

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1911.

It is stated that a large percentage of the people who visit the post offices in the large cities leave souvenirs of their visits in the way of umbrellas, canes, packages, handkerchiefs, and in fact, almost everything exceptable as movable property. It might be well to establish a checking bureau at each door to relieve the public of the small impediments for later reclamation. But even so there are many people who would promptly lose their checks.

Now the plan is to keep the small navy yards and have them specialize. This gives Kittery a chance.—Boston Record.

And the Record has given the New Hampshire brethren a chance to reject their efforts to prove that while the navy yard is present in Kittery in the body it is absent in the spirit.—Bridgford Journal.

For the benefit of our esteemed Maine contemporary we would say that Portsmouth navy yard (this is the official designation) is situated on two islands in Portsmouth harbor and is the property of the United States government.

The advantage of the fire drills in our public schools was most forcibly shown on Monday when four hundred children marched from the Emerson Primary school in Boston, the school being emptied in one minute and eighteen seconds after the signal for a fire drill had been given. Not one of the pupils knew that there was a serious fire in the four-story brick building, 136 Chambers street, which backs up against the school building, and which threatened to communicate to the latter structure.

The fire engines had not appeared when the principal, Alicia J. Collier, rang the fire drill signal and all of the youngsters were in the street waiting for the call to return to their class rooms when the first apparatus came clattering through Chambers street.

By that time the smoke had filled the school building and Miss Collier was obliged to dismiss the children for the day. After the last piece of fire apparatus had arrived the signal to break the lines was given and the youngsters moved toward their homes leaving the scene at the command of their teachers.

BIRD'S EYE VIEWS

It seems irrelevant to mention the fact that at a great distance the harbor looks a little like a great show on earth parade.

It is not for Theodore Roosevelt to stand by and see ex-President of the United States indiscriminately criticized.

As to the question of whether women shall smoke in public, it may be prudent to allow the women who

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Organizing the Indians

A movement has been undertaken to organize all North American Indians into a fraternal association. To that end all tribes have been requested to send delegates to a convention to be held in Washington during the winter. The organization of fraternal societies and national associations is one of the most widespread of American industries. It is in fact the only one of our industries so generally practiced that it may be classed as a habit. Whenever two or three Americans meet a new society is imminent. Moreover, all our foreign fellow-citizens are prompt to follow our lead. Why, then, has the original native been so long a sharer in our civilization without adopting a course which would enable him to wear feathers and call a "grand sachem"?—New York World.

Miles of Cloth

The French war ministry announces in a little item in L'Espresso that it is prepared to sell some 168 kilometers of the kind of cloth from which army uniforms have been made since 1839. The old red trousers and blue blouse of the army of France are to be replaced by the "mignonne green" of the new uniforms. Think of it! Over 110 miles of cloth have been kept on the shelves of the army supply headquarters simply as an adequate "stock" against current needs. Usually the layman estimates the cost of war in terms of slaughtered human beings or ruined property. But the thought of 110 miles of cloth, constantly kept on hand, gives a new vividness to any conception of the enormous expense of a European standing army. The mind runs on instinctively to conjure up millions of square feet of leather and uncounted trillions of gilt buttons.

We ought to be thankful every day that this country stands outside the

PLENTY OF PROOF

From People You Know—From Portsmouth Citizens

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced by evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of Portsmouth, of people who can be seen at any time, read the following case of it:

"B. A. Berry, 147 Congress St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: 'Doan's Kidney Pills were used by a member of my family and proved of great benefit. The person referred to suffered terribly from lame back and was often out of bed. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, a box was procured at Phillips' Pharmacy and the use begun. This remedy promptly disposed of the complaint.'

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Gleanings From Files of Portsmouth Chronicle

We understand that Mr. William Adams, Jr., Shipping Master, of Boston, has taken rooms in connection with the U. S. Naval rendezvous in this city, and is desirous to enlist 1,000 landsmen and ordinary seamen. Minors must bring certificates of their parents' consent to their enlistment. Mr. Adams is prepared to furnish outfits immediately, and will thus save those who ship at his office from much inconvenience and discomfort incident upon the former mode of enlistment, as the outfit was not then furnished until the recruit was on board the recruiting ship at Charlestown, Mass.

The recent brilliant achievement of our naval force at Port Royal, has awakened a renewed interest in this branch of the service, as the location of the office is now on this side of the river, and the reputation of the officers who have the matter in charge has been won by means that all families in which leave their beautiful summer cottages hereabout and return to their city homes by the last week in August. Certainly this is not in accord with their wishes or convenience. There is still another consideration of even greater importance.

Energetic and ambitious boys and girls by the thousands who attend the academies and high schools of New England have heretofore found employment at our summer hotels and resorts among the mountains and at the seashore. It is this employment that has enabled many of them to pursue their studies during the Fall and Winter, otherwise their financial condition would have made it imperative that they seek employment throughout the year.

But now a new phase of the situation arises. Managers of hotels and other places which employ students are finding themselves obliged to look for other employees to the exclusion of these ambitious scholars, because the latter must leave by the last week of August, the first week in September at the latest.

Otherwise the hotels must close for the season. And September is one of the most delightful months.

Upon the face of this situation it appears certain that if these ambitious, but poor, young men and women struggling for an education are to have these summer employment opportunities, there must be a change in the date for opening the schools, and if such a change is made it should by all means be uniform.

Here in Portland the gateway to Maine's extensive and profitable summer tourist business, we realize full well the many advantages that would follow a lengthening of the season at our summer resorts. It is a season that is all too short at the best but it is made needlessly shorter through the enforced September rush home-ward in anticipation of the opening of the schools.

That the subject is one that is likely to receive careful consideration in the near future is evident. Last October an organization was formed at York Beach to be known as the New England Uniform School Law Association, the purpose of which is to call the attention of the public to this matter. The association will urge the legislature of each New England state to pass a law making the opening of the schools not earlier than Sept. 20. The new organization is young but it is receiving hearty assurances of co-operation. The movement will doubtless attract widespread attention and we believe that if it can accomplish its ends it will materially add to the prosperity of all New England.—Portland Express.

We should say that the efficiency of a navy's fleet of colliers is of nearly as much importance as the efficiency of the fighting ships themselves, yet forecasts of the coming year seem to center wholly about the number of battleships or cruisers to be built. At the great review in New York it was made manifest that the steaming power of our navy is ridiculously limited. That immense fleet in the North River could steam on its own oil about 5000 miles. We have half a dozen colliers of fleet speed and from them our fighting machines could get fuel for about 30 days' running speed and for not more than 8 under forced draft or full speed. We also have 15 destroyers burning oil. The single oil ship could supply these five vessels with the liquid fuel quantities sufficient to last at the most not more than five days. Our gunnery records lead the world, but our fleet is apparently tied to an extremely narrow steaming radius.—Portland Express.

Uniform School Laws

We have an existing system, some might call it a lack of system, for fixing the date upon which our public schools shall open. Local school boards attend to this matter and as customs or fancies differ somewhat in different communities a lack of uniformity results. In recent years, however, the public schools open very shortly after Labor Day which comes on the first Monday in September.

We have seen demonstrated here in Portland every year that there are public school pupils must

Street Accidents

To those who have cherished the impression that children constitute a majority of the victims of automobile street accidents, the report of the National Highways Protective society for the Greater City of New York since January 1 will undoubtedly come as a revelation. Not a little has been said about the danger to children playing in city streets, and it must be admitted that the danger is real; but the report to which reference has been made shows that children, after all, represent a comparatively small percentage among the automobile street victims. Of eighty-nine persons killed by automobiles in the streets of Greater New York since January 1, thirty-five were children; and of the 885, who have been seriously injured by the same means in the same period, 207 were children. New York probably has as many children as has any other city in the world; hence the reasonableness of taking this report as the basis of a general conclusion. The fact, however, that fewer children than adults are killed or injured in automobile accidents does not detract one iota from the vital importance of precaution on the part of the parents or guardians in this respect.

Automobilists, as a rule, exercise much care against the chance of running down pedestrians, and perhaps this care, if anything, even more marked in regard to children than in regard to adults, who may be assumed to possess greater judgment and physical ability to remove themselves from danger. Nevertheless, advisability of guarding children against all risk is obvious.—Manchester Union.

That the subject is one that is likely to receive careful consideration in the near future is evident. Last October an organization was formed at York Beach to be known as the New England Uniform School Law Association, the purpose of which is to call the attention of the public to this matter. The association will urge the legislature of each New England state to pass a law making the opening of the schools not earlier than Sept. 20. The new organization is young but it is receiving hearty assurances of co-operation. The movement will doubtless attract widespread attention and we believe that if it can accomplish its ends it will materially add to the prosperity of all New England.—Portland Express.

ONE WORD NO

The days I have wasted, the hours I've lost,
The health that is gone, and the money it cost,
All come to me at the still of night,
When I lie awake and don't feel right,
And my heart just seems to lose its hold,
On the things I've heard and the tales I've told,
And my breath it comes in a sob of woe,
When I stop and think that I can't say, "No."

The days that have come and the time that has passed,
And friends, who were friends, but didn't last,
All return to me sometimes at dawn;
As I toss and pray for the sleep that is gone;
And my life just seems one long dream blank,
When I figure up the things that I've drank,
For I haven't turned down a friend or foe,
Because I never could say, "No."

The days that were, and the days that are,
Have been thrown away in some glittering bar,
And seem to me the milestones of sin,
In the twisted path of a "might have been,"
And my whole inner-self seems to rise and say,
"We must start again," 'tis another day,
But down in my heart it hurts me so,
When I stop and think that I must say "No."

The girls I've had and the ones I have known,
And the who at one time was all my own,
All seem to change into faint memory,
Of the days that have been, but never can be,
And my soul calls aloud for some woman's love,
The sound of her laughter, the touch of her sleeve,
Through the days and nights I worried so,
When I stop and think that I can't say "No."

The same that has fed, the chance I missed,
Have furrowed the brow that at one time was blessed,
By the lips of good fortune, and caressed by success,
For the days long ago, when I never said yes,
And that's why I am plugging along on the verse,
And instead of a smile, to my lips comes a curse,
For I might have been worth a million or so
If I could but of uttered that little word, "No."

ROCKINGHAM PARK THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

An Attractive Programme of Sports Scheduled, Including a Lacrosse Game Between Canadian Champion Teams, 10 Mile Marathon, Balloon Ascension, Military Contests and Gymkhana

There is every indication that a very lively interest is being manifested in the notable programme of sports scheduled for Thanksgiving Day at Rockingham Park, Salem, N. H., to start at 11 a. m. and to end at sundown. The attractive list of events is arranged under the comprehensive title of "Gymkhana Athletic Meet and Military Field Day."

Since the experience of Columbus Day when an Aviation Meet was held there and the Boston and Maine was unable to handle the crowds from Boston and the cities near the park the railroad people have been active in preparing for adequate accommodations before another holiday programme at the park. A special station has been built at the park with a hundred foot platform and there 30 foot bridges to carry passengers directly into Rockingham Park. The Boston and Maine announces a special schedule of trains from Boston.

The Haverhill, Lowell, Lawrence, Nashua, Portsmouth and other cities and H. Fawcett of Boston was killed towns. The street railway lines in favor of Dr. Fred S. PACKERS GO TO TRIAL WEDNESDAY

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Judge George A. Carpenter of the United States District Court today postponed until Wednesday the trial of J. Ogden Armour and nine other packers charged with violating the criminal provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. The postponement was in compliance of the action of Judge Kohlsaat of the United States Circuit Court, who, after quashing the writs of habeas corpus previously granted to the packers, withheld the entry of the order until Wednesday.

J. Ogden Armour, the only defendant directly concerned in the habeas corpus proceedings, might have been placed on trial, but Judge Carpenter announced that he was not disposed to try his case separately.

Dist. Atty. Wilkerson asked for a stipulation that, when the order is entered by Judge Kohlsaat Wednesday, the defendants must give bail in the District Court. Attorneys for the packers made no objection to this.

Counsel for the packers refused to stipulate what their next move would be.

After the court proceedings terminated, the roll of 150 reinforcements was called and the court listened to excuses and pleas for non-service.

Commenting upon the adjournment of the United States Supreme Court, Levy Mayer of counsel for the packers, said they had had no intention of making an appearance at the trial.

A GREAT BIG ATTRACTION.

Lyn Harding, the well known foreign actor, is one of the principals with Grace George in her new play, "Just to Get Married," the attraction at the Portsmouth Theatre, Thursday evening of this week.

Mr. Harding has gained most of his fame as a "character" actor, and will have an available chance to show his worth in this play. One of his most recent successful portrayals was that of the villain in "The Spotted Band," in London. Mr. Harding is greatly pleased with the opportunity afforded by the repertoire plan of Miss George and the Playhouse Company to give relief to his versatility. This fine actor made his debut on the stage in 1896 and gained his early experience in a stock company. His first London success came in 1902 when he played in Richard Gauthony's piece, "The Prophecy." This was followed by another hit in "The Snug Little Kingdom," after which he was engaged by Beerholm Trees for his Majesty's Theatre. He has been prominent in every production at this theatre since the "Daring of the Gods," in which he made a profound stir as the dumb slave. Some of the plays in which Mr. Harding established himself firmly as a London favorite were "Colonel Newcome," "Oliver Twist," "A Winter's Tale," "King Richard II," and "Anthony and Cleopatra."

GRACE GEORGE, Who Comes to the Portsmouth Theatre next Thursday in "Just to Get Married."

EXTENSION WORK

How Appropriation Is Used at the State College

The following bulletin, prepared by J. C. Kimball, director of extension work has been issued by the New Hampshire college and experiment station, and tells of the extension work.

At the last session of the New Hampshire legislature the sum of $3000 was appropriated for extension work, and $1500 for publishing information and other helpful publication. These appropriations are to extend over two years one half of the amounts being available each year.

Giving recognition and support to extension work places New Hampshire in the rank of those progressive states that are endeavoring through the medium of their institutions to carry to their citizens who are not in a position to receive such information from school and college class rooms, a better knowledge of their vocation. Extension work carrying the assistance of the college and station to the farm and to the home. Whenever possible practical demonstrations are given of approved methods and practices in the different neighborhoods, on familiar soil, under conditions that are known and since they are applicable to the locality, he put into practice.

Extension work should mean a great deal to the future industrial prosperity of the state. It should be of much value in helping to develop and at the same time protect and preserve the natural resources of our commonwealth.

There are so many promising fields for development along extension work that it is difficult to decide which ones to take up first. Existing conditions have however, practically settled the question. Funds require for the different lines of endeavor and available time of the college and staff from their other duties have restricted the work for the present mainly to the following lines, which space will only allow me to name.

1. The answering of letters of inquiry.
2. Demonstrations—Demonstrations of approved farm practices in different parts of the state.
3. Scientific advice on farm orchard and forest management.
4. Farm Survey—This work is being done in co-operation with the bureau of plant industry to determine actual conditions in different sections of the state.
5. Orchard Surveys—The object of this work is to secure first hand information relative to the condition of orcharding in New Hampshire.

6. Dairy Cow Test Associations—A very successful association has been organized at South Lyndeborough.

7. Co-operative Experiments—Co-operative experiments are under way with several farmers in Grafton and Coos counties in handling hay lands.

8. Variety of Test of Corn—This is a co-operation test with county farms. It is planned to test some of the best varieties of corn in the state under similar conditions on county farms where the work may be inspected by the corn growers of the county.

Test were conducted this year on the county farms in Stratford, Carroll, Hillsborough and Sullivan counties.

9. The Use of Agricultural Lime on New Hampshire Soils—This use of lime has been under this year at twenty-five different points in the state.

10. Cures of Sheep Industry in New Hampshire—The aim of this work is to help extend the interest in sheep husbandry by first obtaining knowledge of the true status of the industry.

11. Exhibit at Fairs—Placing instructive exhibits at our leading fairs that set forth in a comprehensive manner the work of the college extension and other helpful agricultural principles and practices. The exhibit were placed at the fairs held at Nashua, Rochester, Plymouth, and at the New England industrial exposition held at Boston.

12. Agricultural Lectures—Members of the college and station staff are called upon frequently to address farmers' institutes, granges, and other gatherings.

13. Judges—The members of the college and station staff frequently act as judges of fruit dairy product, corn and live stock at our county fairs and grange meetings.

14. Agricultural Reading Course—Suitable books, bulletins, and other literature are recommended for these courses.

15. Identification—Fruit, weeds, insects, and plant diseases are identified. In the case of weeds, insects and plant diseases recommendations are made for controlling them.

16. County Institute Extension—Clubs of each county are to be asked next August on county day to visit New Hampshire college and station and inspect its work.

17. Two-day Institutes—It is planned to organize and hold at the college during the winter, two day institutes that will deal with some leading farm problem in a thorough and comprehensive manner so that all who attend the institute will feel that they have been well paid for attending.

18. Information Circulars and Bulletins—These bulletins deal in a simple manner with some vital factors relating to agriculture.

19. Press Bulletin—Each week press bulletins will be sent to the leading papers and farmers of the state containing some timely suggestions on some important agricultural subject.

WATER TRANSPORTATION THE GREAT NEED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—It is not alone in states having waterway systems to develop that a growing sentiment is found favoring the enlargement of transportation facilities. On his return to Washington recently Senator W. E. Borah, of Idaho, said in this connection:

It is of vital importance to this country that we secure more adequate means of marketing our products. Thousands of dollars each year are lost to producers and consumers alike through lack of transportation facilities. Season after season we read the accounts of crop shortages and the consequent loss of shipments themselves through exposure, or of partial loss by reaching the market in poor condition. Adjustments of such losses are always uncertain, and never satisfactory to either consumer or producer. The only solution of the difficulty lies in better methods of carrying freight. Since the railroads confess their inability to improve conditions, relief must come through more waterways.

"The National Rivers and Harbor Congress, which I notice is to hold its annual convention here next month," continued the Senator, "is doing a great work in this field, and I am glad to note that such men as Theodore Roosevelt, President Taft, and other great leaders, have given their public endorsement to its object. With their slogan of 'A Policy and not a Project' this organization is accomplishing a twofold purpose. First, it avowedly condemns the principle of 'you scratch my back and I scratch yours,' that unfortunately has so often marked the progress of legislative measures in Congress. They are doing everything in their power to get away from that principle or rather lack of principle in trying to interest Congress to provide for an annual appropriation for harbor and waterway improvement. They recognize, I believe, that river and harbor improvement appropriation in the past large the stigma of the 'vicious trade' system of securing projects, and are doing a great thing in frowning upon every suggestion of such methods, trying to educate the people and their representatives to better things. And the work is telling.

"Furthermore, the 'Policy and not Project' slogan will solve the transportation difficulty if adopted as a river and harbor Congress seeks to have it adopted. Relief must come through improved waterways and the plan of an adequate annual appropriation through a series of years meets with my unqualified approval. I am not sure what can be called 'adequate' for I have not studied the subject sufficiently to know how much would be needed. That is a mere detail, however. The movement in general, I wish to give my hearty approval. I may add by the way, that I do not believe any harm would come to railroads through a greater number of water carriers of freight. It would simply put a greater amount of freight in circulation, and the railroads would be benefited as well as the water carriers and the long-suffering consumer."

GAS FOR LIGHT

FOR HEAT UNITS. The standard for these United States is the British Thermal Unit, by which is meant the heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit from an established temperature of 39 degrees F. The best American practice requires for city gas that an average value of 600 B. T. U.'s be maintained. A minimum of 550 B. T. U.'s is allowed to provide for unforeseen emergencies in manufacture; but the aim is to maintain a uniform quality approximating the average.

INCREASED PAY AND PENSIONS

Will Be Recommended By Secretary Meyer For Navy Yard Employees.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Secretary Meyer will say in his annual report: "The civilian, clerical and technical force of the Navy Department Government, but, if Congress is not ready to make a general increase, it should at least equalize the compensation of positions of the higher executive departments and in private employment, and better opportunities for more desirable private employment and better chances for advancement in other departments of the Government. In which the scale of salaries for similar service appears to be appreciably higher, the loss of competent employees by reason of resignation and transfer has been a source of embarrassment to the department, and has seriously affected the stability of the force.

The total number of officers and enlisted men authorized for the navy and Marine Corps has increased from 27,862 in 1899 to 60,974 in 1911, an increase of 114 per cent. In the same period the classified civilian force in the department proper at Washington has increased from 507 to 700, an increase of thirty-eight per cent.

The Census Bureau prepared a statement, as of date July 1, 1907, giving statistics of employees in the executive civil service of the United States. Computing the civilian force of the departments proper at Washington, the navy ranked lowest as to average rate of compensation, the Department of Agriculture not being included, as the figures for that department were based on the total number of employees in and outside of Washington. The conditions, so far as the Navy Department is concerned, have not been materially bettered since the statement referred to was prepared. Eliminating the technical, messenger, laboring and watch force, the discrepancy between the Navy Department and the other executive departments is still more pronounced. Concrete examples can be cited of positions involving duties of a high character where the discrepancy is unusually large. A provision of law in the legislative act approved June 22, 1906, prevents the transfer of an employee from one executive department to another until such employee has had at least three years' service. This provision has worked to the advantage of the Navy Department so far as employees in the lower grades are concerned, but the loss by transfer is still felt and is due, in a large measure, to the universal impression that the chances for advancement to the Navy Department are much less than in other departments of the Government, owing to the low rate of compensation for positions requiring a high order of clerical or technical ability.

During the past few years great stress has been laid by heads of departments and others upon the fact that the schedule of salaries for clerical employees in the executive departments in Washington has not been revised since the passage of the Act of March 3, 1853. As a matter of fact, the schedule of 1853 has been revised downward. Of the employees engaged in clerical and technical work in the departments in Washington, approximately twenty-five per cent now receive less than $1200 per annum, the minimum salary prescribed for clerical services in the Act of 1853, and in the Navy Department this percentage is thirty-three.

SEPULCHERS OF WAX.

Tombs That Breathe Sometimes Erupt in Their Hives.

Bees have a very ingenious and sanitary way of disposing of a mouse or a slug that may happen, by accident or design, to find its way into their hive. When the intruder is killed the problem arises how to deal with the body. If it is impossible to expel or dismember, they will proceed methodically to enclose it in a veritable sepulcher of wax.

In one of his hives a beekeeper discovered three such tombs side by side, erected with party walls like the cell of the comb, so that no wax should be wasted. These tombs the prudent "sextons" had raised over the remains of three snails that a child had introduced into the hive. As a rule, when dealing with snails, bees will be content to seal up with wax the opening of the shell. But in this case the shells were more or less cracked and broken, and they had considered it simpler, therefore, to bury the entire snail.

They had further contrived, in order that traffic might not be impeded in the entrance hall of the hive, a number of galleries exactly proportionate, not to their girth, but to that of the male bees, which are almost twice as large as the workers.—London Standard.

STRAIT OF MAGELLAN.

Place Names That Dot It Breathe of Its Tragedies.

The history of the toll of the strait of Magellan began when the first primitive canoe capsized and fatally spilled its dark-skinned Amerindians into the icy waters of this southern archipelago. The first white man's toll was paid on his sudden passage through the strait by the man whose name the strait now bears, and the price exacted was one of the flower of his fleet and the desertion of others, which turned tail for home before the bitter blasts from the western winds.

Since that long 300 years ago these wild and forbidding regions have exacted their heavy toll of life and property from every maritime nation of the globe which has sought to use these "lands of the earth" as a highway. The very names given by explorers to these parts are a clear to his history and character—Mount Darwin, Beagle channel, Mount Sarmiento, Desolation Island, Thieves bay, Port Fanning, Mount Misery, Unlucky bay, Last Hope inlet in many cases spelling tragedy in its worst forms.—Outing.

Stevenson's Name.

No modern writer is better known by his initials than Robert Louis Stevenson, but "R. L. S." was arrived at after considerable experiment. Stevenson's original names were Robert Lewis Ballou, and the third name caused the difficulty. Until he was about fifteen he signed himself "Stevenson." After that he occasionally used Stevenson, "R. L. S." In 1868 he asked his mother to address him as "Robert Lewis," but a year or two later, as he expressed it in a letter to Mr. Baxter, "after several years of feeble and ineffectual endeavor with regard to my third initial (in thing I loathed)," he finally abandoned it altogether. Stevenson when about eight changed the spelling of his second name from "Lewis" to "Louis," but Lewis he remained at all times in the mouth of his family and friends.

Origin of the Moss Rose.

The reputed origin of the moss rose, according to the Persian legend, is so pretty a tale that it will have a romantic interest for all who love that old world and delightful member of the great rose family. It appears that in the long ago the angel whose task it was to tend the flowers, wept with his labors, fell asleep beneath a rosebush and on waking, refreshed with its perfume and the shade it had afforded him, he asked for any boon he wished. "Give us," said the roses, "some further charm," and the angel, stooping, picked up some of the moss on which he had been lying and enveloped the flowers with it, telling them that this green covering, being the emblem of modesty and humility, would make the moss rose the fairest of its species and its queen for all time.—Pitt Mail Gazette.

Queen Elizabeth's Jester.

Pace, jester to Queen Elizabeth, was so bitter in his retorts on her that he was once forbidden her presence. After he had been absent for some time a few of his friends entreated her majesty to receive him back into favor, engaging for him that he would be more guarded in future. On his return, however, Pace was as bad as ever.

"Come on, Pace," said the queen in a gracious humor. "Now we shall hear of our faults."

"No, madam," said Pace. "I never talk of what is discussed by all the world."

The Planet Mercury.

Mercury is so close to the sun that it at times receives nine times the amount of heat received by the earth. It would be much too hot on Mercury to permit life at all similar to what we have on our own planet, and there has never been any discussion regarding the habitability of Mercury.

A Careful Clerk.

"Why didn't you praise that sausage more?" demanded the grocer. "That sausage is all right."

"It doesn't pay to praise sausage too highly," retorted the new clerk. "It might wag its tail."—Washington Herald.

Extra Pay for Coxswains
Coxswains detailed as coxswains of boats propelled by machinery, or as coxswains to commanders in chief are entitled to receive $5 per month in addition to their pay. The law limits the detail to men of the grade of coxswain to entitle the appointee to receive the extra pay. Recently a seaman was detailed as coxswain of a motor boat attached to the U. S. S. Bailey and for a time was paid extra pay. The comptroller holds that such a detail does not entitle the man to additional pay.

PERSONALS

Want Change in Uniform
Officers in the navy are urging a change in the uniforms for the navy and marine corps. They maintain that the blue uniform is not suitable for the tropics and is too warm for summer wear even in northern climates. In its place they suggest for landing parties or for men in the field and who have to live in tents this uniform:

Khaki or olive drab breeches for the officers and trousers for the enlisted men of the same material; khaki colored or olive drab woolen shirts with proper devices to indicate rank of the wearer and English flannel wrap pultees for the officers and brown canvas puttees for the enlisted men. A modification of the marine campaign hat is recommended.

What does all this QUALITY mean anyhow? It means, and in this case it spells VNK
